Hits Big 10 'Professionalism' For Pressuring Ray Gross

By Ken Starck
Editor-in-Chief

Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann elaborated yesterday upon his recent attack on what he calls "Big Ten professionalism," and continued to stick by his guns in his challenge to the Commissioner of the Big Ten to clean up the conference.

Oppermann, who also doubles as Wartburg's basketball coach, said yesterday that there were three major issues involved in the affair, which grew out of a letter of protest sent by Oppermann to Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, Big Ten Commissioner, last Wednesday. Oppermann cites the three points:

—The name of Wartburg College is not directly implicated in the affair.

—Big Ten athletic rule regarding the eligibility of athletes transferring from one school to another is unfair to other schools.

—Ray Gross was tampered with while still enrolled at Wartburg College.

The entire case centers around Ray Gross, who in the fall of 1955 transferred from the University of Wisconsin to Wartburg. According to Oppermann, Gross had given all indications that he was permanently situated at Wartburg.

However, immediately following the Christmas vacation, Gross left Wartburg to be with his wife during the second semester. Oppermann said yesterday that Gross is free to participate in the Wisconsin University basketball program if he so desires.

Oppermann said yesterday that Wartburg College is not involved in this affair. It consists entirely of the question of the application of the Big Ten rule, entitled 'No Question About Gross' Eligibility.

Gross is still in the conference to go to Wisconsin, and under Big Ten rules, he is eligible—there's no question about that—but that rule is unfair to other institutions, Oppermann continued, and should be removed.

"Gross' record previously had pointed to a hypothetical situation in which it could be used to the advantage of one school or athletic conference at three different schools at one time."

Oppermann further explains: "Is it a fair rule to allow a student to transfer from one educational institution to another and be eligible for athletic competition immediately?"

Oppermann will redouble his efforts to contact Commissioner Wilson and Oppermann, "But Gross was a resident of Wartburg College when the Wartburg campus, for that's all I'm interested in."

According to Big Ten rules, Gross was eligible.

Oppermann believes that Wartburg, as a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, possesses all the rights and privileges of that organization.

"When a student is an amateur institution," stated Oppermann, "it is such by choice and does not have the right to entice an individual away from that school's campus to any campus belonging to an athletic conference, whether it be a member or any other school."

Pressure Obvious

That pressure came to bear upon Gross during the period at Wartburg is obvious, according to the dean. On one occasion Gross was excused from classes to meet with Commissioner Wilson in Omaha because he drove to Wisconsin to talk to the several people. Last fall Gross returned to the Wartburg campus to meet with Coach Oppermann to discuss basketball, which he was going to remain at Wartburg.

Basketball practice began the first part of November at Wartburg, and Gross was given a spot on the varsity lineup, performing and it was not until Jan. 4 that Gross received word via air mail returning for the second semester.

"I have absolutely nothing against Ray Gross" said Oppermann, "that according to my definition of tampering, had Fuzzy Vance handball coach at Wisconsin) tampered with him."

Gross Getting 'Free Ride'

According to Oppermann, Gross is receiving a "free ride" at Wisconsin. To him, such a free ride constitutes professionalism, and this isn't the first time that such tampering has gone on in the Big Ten, Dr. Oppermann said.

In the open letter sent to Wilson, Oppermann challenges Wilson "to clean up the Big Ten or else recognize that the present Big Ten professionalism; to see to it that the Big Ten athletic code be changed to make them fair to other schools instead of favoring one."

Wilson has termed the statements made by Oppermann in his letter as "malicious."

Oppermann said, "I don't know what the 'malicious' statements are."

"I have no argument with Tug Wilson personally, however. Evidently he's trying to clean up the Big Ten, but I question the source of his recent actions in which he and the Big Ten seem to be in comedy with rules to the fullest extent."

Healy Screens African Movies

By Marsha Arhart

Thomas E. Healy, noted foreign correspondent, will present his full-color film lecture "Africa Without Make-Up" at the second of the Wartburg College specially series tomorrow evening at 8 in Knights Gymnasium.

A native of Australia, Healy has been a war correspondent for the London Daily Mirror and has traveled extensively throughout the world.

The film covers territory from the Cape of Good Hope to extreme southern Africa to the Congo River Region and was filmed and edited entirely by Healy.

Representing a 15-month safari in Africa and a journey of 21,000 miles, Africa Without Make-up' includes wildlife in its natural habitats.

See Scenic Coastline

Scenic coastline and mountain views and native dance sequences with a complete background of native music will be shown. The background music was recorded directly on the scene and consists of original and authentic tribal melodies.

Thomas Healy
Foreign correspondent

The picture was written before the National Geographic Society in Washington, D. C., was appraised by that group as being one of the most outstanding films ever made in Africa.

Beginning in the southern coast, the film presents Cape Town and the crest of Table Mountain. Rounding known as the Southernmost of Africa, ranch scenes, the land of the Zulus, and Johannesburg, the gold city.

As the film proceeds to the Northern River, Victoria Falls is seen. The Fort Forest, home of the pygmies, and the location of Kilimanjaro will also be shown.

Rare Animals Featured

Various sequences throughout the film will include such rare African animal scenes as an ostrich farm, the herd of baby sharks, tiny cattle with arrow spreads of horns and courting place of the hippos.

Healy has recorded in filming colorful native dances where 50 xylophone and marimbas and hundreds of guin feet pound out the rhythmical war chant.

Wild animals, colorful native dances and customs as well as scenic countryside, all are shown in this unusual film lecture. Production which will give the viewer a valuable and better understanding of Africa.

Student Senators Receive Freshmen, Reports, Food

Appointments, reports and food were all on the Student Senate's agenda at its regular meeting in the Union's small dining room Monday evening.

Other business included approving use of the student government office for a game room when not needed by the Senate and discussion of the Student Body Project.

Approve Funds

Approved were the appointments of seven freshmen and two seniors to the following committees: Activities, Athletic, Social, Defense Phillips; Student Activities; Tom Reichenau, Jerry Fabre, and Glenn Hucek, Research.

Lengthiest business of the meeting centered around who has the authority to allot funds for the Union Program Council. Senate action regarding matter was that the authority rests with the Student Union Board.

Senior Senator Paul Wittenberg maintained that the Senate has the authority, while senior Bob Vogel maintained it was up to the Student Union Council. No action was taken.

Senators Listen

Reports from the major Senate committees were presented, giving a resume of activity for the first semester.

In a somewhat lighter vein, the Senate held a special social hour following the meeting for the "acquainted" session for new fresh members.

Dr. Hertel To Attend Chicago Medical Meet

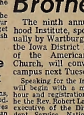
Dr. E. W. Hertel, head of Biology department, will attend the 103rd annual Congress on Medical Education and Licensure in Chicago next week.

According to Hertel, the convention will deal with the current issues and advancements of premedical education in America.

While in Chicago, Dr. Hertel will also attend the meeting of the Association of Schools and Colleges of the United States. Hertel is chairman of the Council of Teachers of the Basic Sciences in Iowa. This board, composed of 10 members, gives examinations to those wishing to enter any the Healing Arts.

Tillmanns To Write For 'Portals' Book

The Rev. Walter Tillmanns, head of the department of Modern Language, will write a series of 13 devotionals for the second edition of "Portals of Prayer," Devotional booklet published by the Concordia Publishing House, St. Louis, Mo.



Tillmanns

According to Tillmanns, "Portals of Prayer" is widely used not only in Lutheran circles but in other denominations as well. The German edition has the largest circulation of any German-language devotional booklet in the United States.

Knights, Norse Nibble

Have a heart—cookie, that is.

Valentine cookies and hot chocolate will be on the menu when North Hall sponsors an after-game social Tuesday evening in the Union Cafeteria immediately following the Luther game.

All Wartburg and Luther students are invited to come to the informal social, according to senior Dale Kopitzke, chairman of the event.

Brotherhood To Convene Tues.

The ninth annual Brotherhood Institute, sponsored annually by Wartburg College and the Iowa District Brotherhood of the American Lutheran Church, will convene on the campus next Tuesday.

Speaking for the institute, which will begin with a morning coffee hour and registration at 8:30, will be Dr. Herbert Gerberding, assistant executive of the Division of Student Service, National Lutheran Council. He will speak on the theme, "Christ In Our Time—A Mighty Church."

Dale Preuss, Fleming, Neb., president of the National Brotherhood, and the Rev. Paul Bruning, Columbus, Okla., executive secretary, will also address the group as part of the morning's program, which will be shared with the regular college Tuesday convocation.

Luncheon Panel Slated

A student panel on Evangelism will appear before the group on Tuesday afternoon. Panel members, all volunteers for the Luther League's program of Mission Workers during the past summer are Wartburg students Bob Vogel, Jackie Reents and Mary Ann Wolter, all of Wartburg Seminary.

LAST YEAR nearly 650 of these men attended.

The remainder of the afternoon will be spent in sectional and general discussion followed by a workshop for Brotherhood officers and leaders. Wives of the attending brotherhood members will be served tea in the Memorial Union in the afternoon, given by the Wartburg Women's Club.

Dr. Siefkes, president of the Iowa District, will lead the closing service, which will be followed by a banquet to be given by the Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Company for the brotherhood members.

Delegates Are Sent

In the evening the Brotherhood members will conclude their gathering by attending the Waverly-Luther game in Knights Gymnasium.

Iowa District Brotherhood president, E. A. Kienzle, and Wartburg business manager, Herb Engelbrecht, who have been working on the plans for the program, have indicated that they expect a much bigger and better program than in the institute's previous years. Engelbrecht, about seven hundred Iowa Lutheran Brotherhood members will attend the institute.

Faces Tell This Story

An ear bent toward enlightenment, a mind anxious to comprehend, a heart eager to feel the imprint of the Word—that was the Wartburg student during last week's Spiritual Emphasis Week.

A person could compare last week to an ocean wave, which gradually grows, suddenly reaches a climax and then breaks off and plunges sharply downward. Or you could take a pencil and on a graph depict the undulating intensity of spiritual life experienced on campus.

And if you're really ambitious, you could compare last week's chapel attendance to this week's. Or maybe you'd like to check the records and find out how many fewer cuts were registered for convocation last week even though there were three of them.

If you're one of the individuals pictured above, then it's probably unnecessary to explain the significance or importance of Spiritual Emphasis Week to you. And if you're not in the picture, then merely study the facial expressions of those who are. Ears for enlightenment . . . minds to comprehend . . . hearts to feel.

Problems Face Wives

By Jean Maas

"Really, the professors sure do pile on the work."

"Yes, especially with all that homework. It keeps us up much too late. Would you care for more coffee?"

"I agree with both of you, but actually we all benefit from the whole."

So far a conversation that could be heard in any dorm room. Then this:

"Mommy, when will daddy put down his Greek books and come out and play with us?"

"What is the biggest problem you face as the wife of a college student?" was the question which interrupted this conversation at a "coffee klatsch" in the Junior Court last Wednesday afternoon.

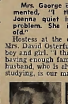
All the women agreed that living is a trailer is fun. Everybody in the park knows the joys of living as in the same boat, and such is easily to help and overcome the few difficulties. Perhaps our two girls could act as baby sitters for each other and get a night out. Maybe we could help each other with our cooking. But probably the biggest problem, this group felt, was that they enjoy it, if you'll benefit about as much as he does."

Mrs. Hoh

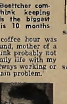
Mrs. Boettcher

Mrs. George Boettcher commented, "I think keeping moms and dads the biggest problem. She is 10 months old."

Hostess at the coffee hour was Mrs. Dale Hoh, mother of a boy and girl. I think probably not being from this area with my husband, who is always working or studying, is our main problem."



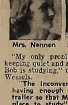
Mrs. Nennen



Mrs. Osterlund

"My only problem is probably keeping quiet and not talking when Bob is studying," said Mrs. Bob Wentz.

The inconvenience of not having enough room in the trailer so that Mel has a quiet place to study is the main problem of Mrs. Melvin Nennen. End of the meeting came and not enough of the father's time for the baby set after headaches.



Mrs. Ideus

Mrs. Wessels

Recently married Mrs. Ray Ideus and Mrs. Orville Wessels felt the problems except getting used to married life is a thrill.

Footnotes To Faith:
Gandhi Gives Us Lessons

By Edwin Sandberg
English Department

Much dismay and criticism of Christian behavior is found in the teachings of Mahatma Gandhi frequently regarded as the most devout of all Hindus who believed that his attack on Christianity is practiced what he preached. Gandhi further points out that love is the center of Christ's teaching in the world and in everything else fades into insignificance beside this Christian fact. Yet, we have lost sight of it. We have been blinded and ensnared of organization, ritual and ceremony to the extent that we at last only dimly see.

Gandhi's objectives are certainly those of every person asking personal community, state, national and international affairs reflect the Christian ethic, a society which has rejected the one and accepted the other tells us will solve all difficulties. Gandhi felt that love must be achieved through suffering love as the means. In other words, the means must be consistent with the end. Immediately it is suggested that this plan is impossible. But Gandhi's answer is India, which won its independence through the use of love, Christ's method. And the British and Indians parted friends after bitter inter-racial struggle almost unprecedented in history.

If it can readily be seen that Christ's message is vital if we are to follow Christ in particular in our actions, or else we cannot to remain content with our present alignment with Christianity, praise of him, the Prince of Peace and Love!

America Will Take No Farewell To Arms

By Dan Oberdorfer
Globular Glibblings Columnist

Amid the furor of news and the rumors of war, we must realize that we have nuclear weapons and we be forced to defend our country against aggression. How would we defend? Let us take a brief glance at the strength that is to safeguard us against foreign powers.

How is the army at the present time? Our strength seems to stand at a new low. We have approximately one million men now in the traditional shakai. This will probably not remain stable since another out is seen in the near future. Our strength in comparison to those of some of our more powerful adversaries.

Oberdorfer

We do have nuclear weapons. However, we are not willing to use them for fear of completely destroying many innocent people. Therefore if we are to fight a war with nonatomic weapons we will be fighting a conventional war as about very little though we do not wish to fight an atomic war, we are still keeping up our production of nuclear weapons.

We have not disarmed ourselves and we have not altogether abandoned our conventional weapons but present we seem to be well enough prepared to fight a conventional war. We have the fact that if we see fit to, well prepared we learn that many of our countries find themselves under the rule of the land.

These countries—Britain, France, Korea and Nationalist China — have considerable manpower by which some aid may be produced. Taking all the facts into consideration, we will probably be able to muster an army in well equipped manpower. The factors that seem to be holding us back from building a large standing army are money, equipment and the lack of willingness to have one.

The greatest problem that faces us now seems to be our concerning the ability for getting new men into the armed forces. Drafting has been cut by a thousand men, and people are not willing to become a part of the armed forces since they absolutely have to.

Reserve units will see to it that our armed forces are at a high point of preparedness. We are prepared to fight a war, but we are not willing to resort to popular belief, we are able to match our opponents in conventional fighting ability. We have a fighting organization which will do its utmost to protect the privileges of freedom-loving peoples.

by Bob Losie

It always seemed to me that, except for English majors, college students seem to avoid Shakespeare like some sort of contagious disease. This, of course, is a grave injustice to old Will. Not only has he made first rate writing on every item for some three hundred years, but he also has written about you and me in the year 1958. Take note of the fun he says about Wartburg College:

On assigning outlined grades to John:
"Let me have men about me that are fat;
With a fearless thesis gone."
—"The Tempest"

On paying one's tuition at Wartburg College:
"So far as the coin would stretch, and where it would not, I have used credit."
—"King Henry IV"

On receiving an Oppie card:
"I am a man whom Fortune hath cruelly scratched."
—"As You Like It"

On Prof. Schicks announcing a Greek test:
"Methought I heard a voice cry, 'Sleep no more . . .'"
—"Macbeth"

On learning of the required attendance at convocation:
"I am mad to the stake, and I must stand the course."
—"King Lear"

On semester tests:
"When sorrows come, they come not single spies, But in battalions."
—"Hamlet"

On a wet towel fight in the shower of the dorm:
"And dammed be him that first cries, 'Hold, enough!'"
—"Macbeth"

On all-nighters:
"I have not slept one wink."
—"Cymbeline"

On freshman initiation:
"True is it that we have seen better days."
—"As You Like It"

Adix Breaks Up Tight Battle At 4:40 After Knights Had Trailed Throughout

By Bill Melvin

Trailing by 10 points with just 10 minutes remaining, Wartburg caught fire to overtake Buena Vista and win a sizzling Iowa Conference victory in Knights Gymnasium last night.

John Adix climaxed the determined Knight rally when he fired in a bucket with only 4:40 remaining to give Wartburg its first lead of the second half at 78-77.

Thirty seconds later Art Margheim broke through the Buena Vista defense for one of his nine field goals and an 80-77 lead.

Ibach Lost to BV

Jerry Ibach, who had become one of the Beaver's main scoring threats in the waning minutes, drew his fifth foul with 3:49 left, and reserve Wayne Slack dropped in both free tosses for Warthurg's widest margin at 82-77.

The Knights failed to capitalize on a free throw attempt when Bob Endersbe, the game's leading scorer, fouled out a few seconds later, and Jim Grider then brought the Beavers within three points when he hit two free throws.

Adix retaliated with two for the Knights, but then picked up his fifth foul with 58 seconds remaining after a Beaver basket had cut the lead to 84-81. Morris Johnson made one of two free throw attempts, and it was 84-82.

Pressing desperately to regain possession of the ball, the Beaver's were called for fouling and Ron Havemann cooly dropped in both of the erucial charity tosses. Grider seored a free throw for the Beaver's final effort.

Free Throws Oifference

Wartburg, which had trailed by two points at the balf, gained the victory at the free throw line making 28 from the line to Buena Vista's 17. The Beavers outseored the Knights from the field, 33 to 29.

Endersbe poured 12 field goals and four free throws through the net to pace all scorers with 28 points. Ibach added 14 for the Beavers, doing most of his scoring in the second half.

Margheim's 19 point effort was tops for the balanced Knight scoring attack. Adix contributed 17, and Al Bahlmann got 15. Havemann and center Mel Frahm both were in the double figures with 13 and 11.

CENTRAL, 87 WARTBURG, 67

Wartburg's hopes to repeat as champion of the Iowa Conference received a sharp blow at Pella last Saturday night as the Knights were stunned, 87-67, by Central College.

Margheim

The Dutchmen's accuracy from the free throw line made the difference as they hit on 35 of 46 charity tosses, compared to the Knights' 15 of 28 attempts.

Gus Youngberg and Ken Loats led Central's scoring attack with 21 and 20 points, respectively. Art Margheim was high for Wartburg with 18.

Knights To Meet St. Olaf After Losing Two Meets

After losing their last two matches to Winona, 20-10, and Coe, 20-6, Knight grapplers will be out to pin a defeat on St. Olaf in Knights Gym at 2 this afternoon.

Oltrogge

Glidewell

Down 12-13, going into the last match in last year's meet with the Oles, Tom Glidewell registered a pin to turn the tide in favor of the Knights.

The loss of Boh Kark, conference runner-up in the 167-pound class left Coach Howie Schutz without a wrestler in this division. Kark was forced to quit for the season and will be hard to replace.

Gerry Lenguadoro and Gene Oltrogge were the only Knights who scored vietories in last Saturday's loss to Coe, 20-6.

Coe heavyweight, John Rosenberg, registered the only pin of the meet as he threw LeRoy Scharnhorst in 5:08.

Coe Summary

123 pounds—Dick Hughes (C) decisioned Maynard Weyers, 3-0.
130 pounds—George Pauk (C) decisioned Dick Chellevold, 3-0.
137 pounds—Waller Homsey (C) decisioned Gerald Meyer, 5-0.
147 pounds—Bob Herculson (C) decisioned Jim Woodrow, 6-1.
157 pounds—Gerald Lenguadoro (W) decisioned Phil DeWees, 4-0.

Wartburg Out Ta Gain Revenge From Luther In Crucial Iawa Canference Tilt Tuesday Night

Revenge will be the keynote for Wartburg Tuesday evening when the rampaging Luther Norsemen invade Knights Gymnasium for a crucial Iowa Conference basketball encounter at 7:30.

Luther gained a 76-70 victory over the Knights in an early season game played at Decorah during a Norse winning streak that carried it to the lead position in the conference race.

Norse Heve Top Loop Scorer

The powerful Norsemen bring to Waverly the conference's leading scorer in center Harlan Wilson. The big senior from Cherokee has hit on 48 per cent of his field goal attempts this year for a 24.5 season average. He is currently listed as the nation's number 24 small college scorer.

Another important eog in the Luther offense is sophomore forward Al Heggen, who ealls the plays in the set pattern of ball used by Coach Ham Peterson's squad. He is rated as a good scorer and a top defensive man.

Wolstad Gone From Line-Up

Noticeably missing from the Luther line-up will be rugged Dwayne Wolstad. Wolstad was the elub's leading rebounder before his eligibility ran out at the end of the first semester.

Coach Earnie Oppermann's club will be seeking to win in front of the Brotherhood crowd that will be on the campus for the game. The Knights have not lost on Brotherhood Night since its origin eight years ago.

Art Margheim, the Knights' leading scorer, has a personal score to settle with the Luther team. He was held to his season's low of 10 points in their first encounter.

3-Way Race Develops In Callege Pin League

College howling league has developed into a three-team race between Ritchie Pontiac, the current loop leaders, Cedar Lawn Motel and Waverly Bowl Inn.

Last Wednesday evening Top Hat whitewashed Cedar Lawn, 4-0, as Hatter Phil Moeller paced his outfit with a 224 high game and a 519 series. In other action Bowl Inn downed Hilltop Cafe, copping all four games.

GROUNDEO PLANES, WRECKED TRAIN PROVE

Liefeld Has Varied Experiences

By Kay Fritschel

Whether circling sleeplessly through fog-filled Iowa skies or answering razor-sharp questions thrust at him by questing college students, Dr. Theodore S. Liefeld, New Testament professor at Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, still finds new experiences as leader of Spiritual Emphasis Week. He has taken a similar role many times on other college campuses.

He has traveled extensively in this work, but probably never ran into so much trouble as he did in trying to arrive at Wartburg. His difficulties included two grounded planes and a wrecked train.

After spending the night at an airfield in Chicago, he boarded a plane at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday. Because of fog, the landing was delayed 15 minutes at Waterloo. He arrived at Wartburg just in time for his first talk with what he described as "a combination of relief at finally arriving and unease at facing a situation cold."

'Real Valua Comes Later'

"The real value of a spiritual emphasis week does not take place in that week but comes later in the sharing of ideas," he believes. "The group that is most critical towards conserving values is the whole faculty, not just those in the Christianity Department. It's a matter of weeks before the real gain can be measured."

In discussion groups he does not try to hand out ready-made answers but prefers to help the individuals formulate their own answers by challenging them and guiding them to think it through.

In connection with the overall theme for Spiritual Emphasis Week, "Does Faith Really Matter?," Liefeld spoke of faith as "believing that God is in the terms in which he has revealed himself and living as though He were so. It is not an intellectual acknowledgment but a dynamic response. It is a relationship between the Creator and man which involves man's obeying, receiving gifts and experiencing God's love in this relationship.

He spoke of Wartburg as "a going concern, something alive. The students possess a genuineness of interest and concern in the business of life," he remarked.

OR. T. S. LIEFELO emphasizes a point during one of last waek's Spiritual Emphasis group discussions in Centannial Hall lounga.

Liefald Works With Othars

Dr. Liefeld has worked with students on more non-Lutheran campuses than Lutheran.

"The reaction in a state school," he commented, is generally net more irreligious, but the experience is different in several respects. Those that are interested, such as members of the Wesleyan Foundation or Lutberan Student Association, are a smaller, but more aggressive group.

He explained that the discussions are geared to a classroom situation and not to the "give and take" of an average bull session.

"The questions are more philosophical in character. It is a heterogeneous situation with no common beliefs. I have been much encouraged with the degree of interest in religious things," he added.

Young GOP Elects, Drafts Constitution

Young Republicans on campus caueussed Monday in the Fuchs Lounge and emerged with an approved constitution, a full slate of officers and the initial formal organization of a Wartburg Young Republicans Club.

Junior Dick Larson will lead the junior GOP, and Bill Thalacker, junior, will serve as vice president. Seniors Ruth Clark and Ray Heidtke are secretary and treasurer.
